Marginal Column By GEORGE LEONOS

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's first official confirmation that the U.S. had exploded the first hydrogen bomb at Eniwetok in 1952, served rather to remind most people that it had been a military secret until the President made the revelation on Tuesday. So open was the secret, in fact, that when it was announced in the U.S. that the Soviet Union had set off a thermonuclear explosion, the greater part of the world Press reported that the Russians also had the H-bomb. In fact, despite Soviet reticence regarding their researches in the field of atomic energy, it is largely taken for granted that the U.S. is well ahead in atomic research. That this feeling is shared by official Washington is strongly indicated by President Eisenhower's unqualified offer for the creation of a world atomic energy bank, and his strong inclination to share at least some of American advances in this field with her allies.

AGAINST the background of American atomic supremacy, the reserve of Mr. Charles Wilson, Secretary of Defense, on the question of America's possible use of nuclear weapons is all the more welcome. Mr. Wilson is reported as having shown obvious distaste at his press conference on Tuesday for reports' attempts to obtain a definition of U.S. policy regarding the circumstances under which the bomb would be used. He frankly deplored what he called the tendency in the Press to "rattle the A-bomb," and said that America must be strong to defend herself she "must try to make it clear to the rest of the world that we are not aggressors."

THE Defense Secretary's condemnation of "atom-rattling" should go a long way towards reassuring that section of opinion which believed the United States had agreed to a big Four Foreign Ministers' conference reluctantly, and rather at the insistence of its allies than through any belief that the meeting might serve useful ends. Nothing would have been easier, were Washington inclined to poison the atmosphere at Berlin, than for Mr. Wilson to take advantage of the persistent questions to just when and why the U.S. would consider splitting an atom or two over the heads of an enemy. Not only did the Secretary fail to do this, but he was even mildly rebuked for its prodding.

THE discussions in Berlin so far seem to have produced little solid ground for optimism, but Sir Winston Churchill, speaking in the House of Commons his no doubt considered opinion that the talks contained "many hopeful features." The British Premier's reticence did not make it clear whether he was referring to what until then appeared to be a softening of the adamant Soviet position on German reunification, or to American agreement for further consideration of a restricted five-power meeting, but Sir Winston's guarded optimism is encouraging. It is the knowledge that not even his severest critics venture to accuse him of political naivete. President Eisenhower in his press conference yesterday did not exactly echo the British Premier's cautious optimism, but his reference to the discussions was conspicuously lacking in pessimism, stressing as it did that the United States should keep trying to reach some agreement.

NONE of the statements are in themselves startling; they are, in fact, greyly commonplace. But if more tangible achievements elude the four Foreign Ministers at Berlin the four-power conference will perhaps attain distinction for its very soothing drabness.

CROWDS GREET QUEEN'S ARRIVAL IN SYDNEY

SYDNEY, Wednesday (Reuters). — A million people today celebrated the arrival of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh on Australian soil. Crowds packed the glittering streets of Sydney tonight and created the tightest traffic jam in the city's history. The royal couple ended their strenuous first day here with a private dinner at Parliament House, to which Prime Minister Robert Menzies, the Governor-General Sir William Slim and New South Wales Premier J. W. Cahill, were invited.

FORTUNE FROM CATASTROPHE

Unbelievable — but the beginnings of the fine brandy we enjoy today had its origins in what was termed a catastrophe amongst the French vine-growers of the 17th century. When suddenly all the grapes in the French vine-growing area went sour, wine stood unthought in the warehouses. An enterprising Dutch apothecary distilled the undrinkable liquid and brandy was born.

Through the years the distillation process has been refined and improved until today when experts produce fine brandy like this. Extra-fine. This extra special fine brandy is available from the Carmel Oriental wineries at Rehovot-Leon and Rehovot-Leon.

Egypt Claims Israel Complaint is 'Spurious'

UNITED NATIONS, Wednesday (UP). — Egypt charged today that Israel's complaint against alleged Egyptian interference with shipping, which comes before the Security Council tomorrow, is "spurious" and is aimed at "entangling relations between Egypt and other states."

Britain Rejects Cairo Blacklist of Ships

LONDON, Wednesday (UP). — Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, British Minister of State, was questioned sharply today in the Commons about Egyptian restrictions on Suez Canal shipping. He told Conservative member Paul Williams that Britain had repeatedly informed Egypt that she does not accept the blacklisting of ships, but he remarked that the refusal of facilities did not necessarily prevent the passage of ships through the Canal.

"We are determined to continue our efforts to achieve an agreement with Egypt, but at the present time the difficulties in obtaining any such result really come from the conduct of the Egyptian Government," he said. In answer to a question, Mr. Lloyd noted that there is now distaste at his press conference on Tuesday for reports' attempts to obtain a definition of U.S. policy regarding the circumstances under which the bomb would be used. He frankly deplored what he called the tendency in the Press to "rattle the A-bomb," and said that America must be strong to defend herself she "must try to make it clear to the rest of the world that we are not aggressors."

Mr. Lloyd was attacked by Conservative "rebel" Patrick Maitland, who charged that the "gentle" British protests "smack of the discredited and discredited policy of appeasement." Mr. Maitland began the exchange by asking what reparation Britain had demanded and received from Egypt for attacks on British persons and property in the Suez Canal Zone in the past 13 months. "We have protested strongly to the Egyptian Government, as I did on January 25, but the question of reparation is bound up with the much wider question of claims and counter-claims which has not yet been discussed with the Egyptian Government in the present state of Anglo-Egyptian relations," Mr. Lloyd replied.

Mr. Lloyd disagreed with the charge of "appeasement." The House Member, I.O. Thomas asked whether the Egyptian authorities had not connived in the attacks, and mentioned the sale of war materials which, he claimed, might be used against British nationals. Mr. Lloyd reported that the sale of war materials had been suspended for a long time.

Scandals, Debts Plague Councils

TEL AVIV, Wednesday. — Disruptions in the services and in the running of the authorities were prophesied today by the League of the Local Councils and Municipalities. The situation at present is described as one of severe lack of funds and the consequent harm to services, while recent discoveries of criminal irregularities in some local authorities is blamed on faults in administrative arrangements. Mr. M. Tsahar (Mapai), Mayor of Tiberias and Chairman of the League, stated that a 10.10m. deficit was incurred by local authorities in last year's budget, and an estimated 11.5m. deficit can be expected this year. Last year's total budget was 11.73m. (including the three big cities), and increases of 15-20% would have to be made in order to meet the fact that local taxation had reached a point of saturation, Mr. Tsahar stated.

Vague Relationship
He blamed the position on the undefined relationship between the central and the local governments. A paradox exists whereby local council administration State education, health and welfare services, and religious needs, while the government paid only half of the expenses. Mayor R. Ostrovski (Progressive) of Raanana, said that in his locality 50% of the residents did not earn enough for bread and tea. Families with seven children were earning 11.10 a week, and the remaining problems were too much for the local authority. He claimed that a similar situation exists in the vast majority of suburban and rural settlements and pointed out that the situation would be worse when the citrus picking season ends.

The Government and the Jewish Agency, he said, were sending social cases to his locality without worrying about funds. A budget, as demanded by the Ministry of Interior, could not be formed, he announced, adding that this was not a Mayor's mutiny but a statement of fact. Perhaps the major trouble in local authorities was seen by Mr. Tsahar in the "politicization" of Councils, where "inter-party arrangements and agreements and political blackmail" are spoiling constructive efforts. He considered it a good idea to have a city manager running affairs under the Mayor and was joined in this by Mr. M. Michael, Mayor of Hertzlia.

500 Pilgrims Are Crushed to Death In Hindu Rite

ALLAHABAD, Wednesday. — More than 500 pilgrims were reported crushed to death and 1,600 others injured today in a stampede which began when a million Hindus faithful jostled to bathe in the sacred waters where the Jumna River joins the holy Ganges.

The vast crowd surged forward hysterically as a procession of naked Brahmins (holy men) passed along the river bank. People were crushed to death and dozens injured yesterday in a similar incident on the banks of the Ganges. Hindus have gathered in the Allahabad region from all parts of India for the festival of Kumbh Mela, which is held every 12 years.

The ceremony proper takes place today, but countless thousands vied to enter the sacred river yesterday, indifferent to the bitter cold and pouring rain. Dr. Rajendra Prasad, President of India, and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru are among those taking part in today's ceremony. (UP, Reuters)

US TO STUDY PAKISTAN REQUEST FOR ARMS

By JESSE EEL LUMBE
Jerusalem Post Correspondent
NEW YORK, Wednesday. — An American delegation is expected in Karachi shortly to examine reports and requests for arms submitted to the Pentagon by the Pakistani military mission in Washington last fall. "The New York Times" reports from Karachi.

Pakistanis see the end of India's role in Korea as removing the "final deterrent" to an American-Pakistan pact, as the State Department is now believed to be "reluctantly accepting" the report said. Quoting British sources, the Pakistani reporter says that Britain is "reluctantly accepting" the inevitability of such an accord, particularly after becoming convinced that it does not mean an active military role.

The "New York Post" predicted today that a Turkish-Pakistan alliance will lessen Turkish friendship to Israel. Kashmir Ex-Premier's Detention Extended

Yehudiel, who introduced the speakers, said that the 70,000 Bukharian Jews still in the Diaspora were mostly in Turkey and Bukhara in the Soviet Union, are looking forward to the day when they can come to Israel.

After accepting a Bible translated into Farsi-Jewish (dialect of the Bukharian Jews, written in Rashi script) by the Bukharian scholar R. Hildesheim, the President noted that the Rosh Hodesh gatherings are a renewal of an ancient Jewish custom.

Shishaki Agrees To Release Opponents

The situation throughout Syria has continued to improve as President Adib Shishaki, continuing to conciliate the detained political leaders, agreed to the early release of all detained leaders on bond, pending their trials, Arab radio stations reported yesterday.

It was reported that General Shishaki was now inclined to believe that the detained leaders had not, as he had first charged, maintained contact with foreign powers. They would therefore be tried only for illegal political activities and inciting university students to strike.

According to "A-Difa," Damascus correspondent, General Shishaki was prepared to offer the leaders some concessions, in return for their agreement to accept the Syrian constitution if they ceased their opposition activities.

Vietminh Threaten French Naval Base

SAIGON, Wednesday (Reuters). — Vietnamese troops today penetrated within 5 km. of Tourane. French naval base in central Vietnam, while 12,000 men of the Vietnamese "iron division" marched on towards Laos, French Union battalions fell back before them "according to a long prearranged plan."

French fighters strafed the enemy lines in the Nam Dong River valley with bombs and napalm. The French High Command issued an optimistic communiqué here saying that the fighting in this jungle country is progressing favourably.

Further north, the French garrison began to push outwards from the besieged fortress of Dien Bien Phu on the Laotian frontier to threaten the supply lines of the "iron" 208th Division, which has been in the area since the French began their search for two villages within the Dien Bien Phu "mountain bowl."

'Rationing by Purse' Is Economic Setback

The replacing of Government controlled rationing with "rationing by the purse" is the greatest setback on the economic front since the State was proclaimed, Mr. Shmuel Shapira said last night, addressing the English Speaking Group (Mapai), in Jerusalem.

He explained that this was the result of coalition and a stable government. Mapai's dilemma was that it was too great in membership to stay out of a government, he said, and too small in Knesset representation to form a cabinet alone.

2nd British Ship Said Seized by Spain

LONDON, Wednesday (Reuters). — The Foreign Office said today that it is seeking information from its Embassy in Madrid on the reported seizure by the Spanish authorities of a second British freighter in less than a fortnight.

The freighter Cotnamore is reported to have been seized on a contraband charge three miles out of Barcelona.

West Rejects Molotov Bid For German Referendum

US to Strive For Agreement-Ike
Amendment Made to Eden Plan

BERLIN, Wednesday. — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today suggested that a plebiscite might be held in the four zones of Germany to find out whether the Germans prefer a peace treaty or the European Defence Community and Bonn Convention.

The proposal was rejected by French Foreign Minister Bidault, who said the Bonn convention leaves a united Germany absolutely free to make her choice whether to adopt the rights and obligations of the West German Republic or not.

Mr. Molotov strongly attacked the Western policy in Europe and especially the six-nation E.D.C.

He said that the USSR is duly interested in the question of free German elections, but the question of the European Army is not a simple one and it is "no coincidence" that the French and Italian parliaments had given serious consideration to it and are not hurrying to take a decision.

The Soviet Minister said that, according to the Bonn and Paris agreements, the three Western powers would, for decades ahead, have the power to intervene in the internal affairs of Germany. He rejected demands by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Bidault that the E.D.C. would bind Germany for decades quoting a paragraph which said that a treaty would remain in force for 30 years.

The Soviet delegation believes, he added, that under the E.D.C. treaty East Germany would be drawn into obligations inconsistent with European security and that this would be inconsistent with the interest and freedom of the German people.

Johnston's Trip To M.E. Is Postponed
WASHINGTON, Wednesday (UP). — Special Ambassador Eric Johnston's second mission to the Middle East on behalf of the American-backed "Little T.Y.A." project for the Jordan River Valley has been postponed for a short while, informed sources said today.

Mr. Johnston had been planning tentative to leave in February, but his departure has been delayed by a "few weeks" or a month.

The delay is said to have to do in part with the decision of the Arab League Council to take up the Jordan River project and see whether it can be modified to meet Arab objections. However, authoritative persons estimate that there is no question of abandoning the plan.

US Exploded H-Bomb in 1952

WASHINGTON, Wednesday (Reuters). — President Eisenhower told Congress yesterday that the U.S. had made the first full-scale thermonuclear (hydrogen) explosion in history at Eniwetok in the Pacific in 1952.

This was the first official confirmation that the Eniwetok explosion, which was reported to have wiped out an island, was a major test of devices leading to the hydrogen bomb.

Mr. Eisenhower called the experiment "a necessary first step in the hydrogen weapon programme of the United States."

He said, "At that time it (the Eniwetok test) represented the furthest advance of research and development in nuclear weapons."

The President's statement was made in connection with the showing to Congressmen of a film concerning "Operation Ivy," the Eniwetok test.

Mr. Sterling Cole, Chairman of the Joint Senate - House Atomic Energy Committee, said that the Eisenhower Administration is now working towards the possible release of this film for the general public a few weeks from now.
